

Megan Connell

Megan is an experienced national presenter who is currently teaching 1st grade in East Grand Rapids, Michigan. She is a fast-paced presenter with a realistic view of what can be accomplished in a lower elementary classroom. Her workshops are derived from both research in "best practices" and her own classroom experience. After an undergraduate degree in Child Development and Elementary Education from Michigan State University, Megan returned to MSU to complete her Masters in Literacy and Language Instruction with a Reading Specialist Certification. While current in the exciting world of emergent literacy, she brings with her practical lessons for your more fluent readers and writers as well. After attending one of Megan's workshops you will not only have several ideas to implement right away in your classroom, you'll be able to speak eloquently about why you spend precious classroom time on each. Megan's workshops are a "must" for all developing teachers!!
